Workers Registration Card and Green Card Alignment of Expiry Dates

Starting 1 November 2009, you may opt for aligning the expiry date* of your Construction Workers Registration Card with that of the Construction Industry Safety Training Certificate (also known as "Green Card") by having the Green Card expiry date printed on the back of your Workers Registration Card. After the alignment and within the validity, you can access and work on construction sites without carrying your Green Card. It's as easy as it gets!

Please NOTE that workers who opt for Alignment of Expiry Dates have to be the holders of valid Green Cards and Workers Registration Cards as required by respective ordinances.

* Alignment of Expiry Dates is only applicable to new and renewal applications of the Construction Workers Registration Card (normal trades), and not applicable to the following circumstances:

- New applicants or existing holders of provisional registration of trades;
- Re-issuance of Workers Registration Cards as a result of change or addition of trades;
- Replacement of Worker Registration Cards;
- Update of information;
- Holders of Green Card with validity less than 15 months (Alignment of Expiry Dates will soon be extended to Green Card with validity less than 15 months. Please watch out for the announcement made by the Construction Workers Registration Authority.)
